Operator, license and geographic restrictions / Term of the agreement and terms of use

Saved information — Terms and Conditions, §§1–15 and 21–31.

- The agreement with Betelgeuse Entertainment B.V. applies to the site, related services, electronic content, games and software. It is indefinite and takes effect upon marking acknowledgement of the terms, consent to the electronic service and data processing. Changes take effect from the day of publication. If the user disagrees, the user stops using the service and notifies the casino in writing. The English version prevails. The governing law is the law of Curaçao. The operator may assign rights and obligations without the player's consent. The invalidity or unenforceability of one provision leaves the others in force. Failure to enforce a condition is not deemed a waiver of its application. The terms provide for force majeure and government decisions. The operator may change the service and set additional participation conditions, including a minimum number of games or payment verification. In the agreement's definitions, a game is a game available through the site and approved by the supervisory authority. Licensed software includes programs, databases and derivative materials. A user who does not accept the terms is offered to stop registration. The agreement points to use at one's own risk and the player's statement that the player considers the games acceptable for themselves. The availability of the site by itself does not mean participation is lawful. In prohibited jurisdictions the site does not constitute an offer or invitation to play. Under §4.3 the operator states that it is not responsible for use of the services by minors or unauthorized persons.
- Access is provided for personal use, is limited, non-exclusive and non-transferable. It is prohibited to resell marketing materials, copy materials without written permission, transfer access after logging in, use data outside the site's operations, or use robots and automated means for abuse. Examples of grounds for sanctions are false or incomplete data, duplicate accounts, use of others'/forged documents or cards, hacking, collusion, modification of software, disruption of the normal course of the game, AI tools that interfere with exchange with the server, and an attempt to withdraw winnings obtained with bonus funds in circumvention of the rules. The operator may report suspicious activity to the authorities, restrict access and operations with or without notice, interrupt the game, cancel transactions, suspend or close the account and, on reasonable suspicion, withhold funds. §8 separately prohibits automated means of communication for unlawful, harassing, defamatory, indecent or offensive use and requires cessation of use after notice of a violation. Among the grounds for blocking, §10 cites probable financial, legal or moral harm to the operator and termination of a promotion or access to the game without warning in the event of a technical error. §9.4 promises to immediately report suspicious activity to the authorities. §22.1 expressly excludes withdrawal of funds from an account opened with false data or where there are multiple accounts. If registration is refused or the account is closed, the operator states that it will fulfill existing obligations. Repeated threats, indecent or offensive speech, sexual content and marriage proposals after warnings may result in a temporary block, a conversation, an offer of responsible-gaming resources or account closure.
- Playing for money opens after correct registration and a deposit. No credit is provided to players. In the event of a failure, the game data is saved in the database, and FAQ states that an unfinished game must continue after logging in again. The operator may correct erroneous publication, data and winnings, and annul results and payments due to an error. The terms exclude liability for interruptions, errors, equipment, networks, transmission failure, unauthorized access, the action of malicious elements and losses or winnings of an interrupted game. In the event of the specified processing errors, the bet is returned if the game is recognized as invalid. To the extent permitted by applicable law, the operator's aggregate liability for the transactions underlying the claim is limited to the amount of funds deposited by the player. §21 separately stipulates the absence of guarantees of uninterrupted operation, liability for published content, the conduct of users online and offline, and the amount or use of deposited funds. §24 extends the release from claims and the obligation to reimburse expenses related to access or violations also to officers, employees, partners and service providers.

- Demo mode without logging in is permitted for games other than Live Casino. Virtual funds are used with automatic replenishment every 24 hours. They cannot be purchased, exchanged for money or withdrawn. Live Casino permits one table at a time unless the provider expressly allows several. Tables are controlled by provider staff, and the chat is moderated. If in doubt, the player may contact the dealer at any time. In the chat, rude speech, threats, sexual content and marriage proposals are separately prohibited. In the event of a dealer error, the responsible employee reviews the video of the deal, their decision is final, and a confirmed error results in the return of the disputed bets of the deal. The game is played with one's own funds. Live Casino is usually excluded from general bonuses; general bonus funds are not displayed in the game balance. Special offers are governed by separate terms; the rules of Live Casino supplement the general terms. Violations may lead to blocking and withholding of winnings.
- Quickspin and the licensors own the intellectual rights to their games, including source code, graphics, design and documentation. For the player, the higher of the local age and 18 years applies, along with territorial restrictions and a personal, non-exclusive, non-transferable license solely for entertainment through the site. Copying and modification, distribution and derivative works, reverse engineering, decompilation, disassembly, removal of rights notices, transfer, sublicensing, rental and commercial use are prohibited. Quickspin excludes warranties and liability toward the player; claims are addressed to the operator.
- The rights to the site, marks, logos, icons and images belong to the operator or the rights holders. The terms prohibit removing rights notices or publishing, uploading, reproducing or distributing protected materials without the consent of the rights holder and the written permission of the operator. The player may terminate the agreement by letter to helpdesk@fireball.casino, after which new transactions are unavailable. In the event of a win from €2 500 or the equivalent, the operator may ask for permission to use the nickname or image in promotional materials; the decision remains with the player. Taxes on prizes, if applicable, are the player's responsibility (FAQ).
